BIO

Pete began playing guitar at the early age of 3 years old in 1987. Influenced by his parents both being professional musicians, Pete learned the acoustic stylings of artists such as Heart, King Crimson and Joan Baez. His family formed a band in 1996 called 'Seraphina' and recorded 2 albums.

By the age of 15 Pete had become influenced by artists such as Eric Clapton, Fleetwood Mac, Jimi Hendrix and Santana, and was bought his first electric guitar. Feeling the need to grow from his early folk roots, Pete formed his first rock band 'Pure Greed' performing a mix of classic rock and blues.

At age 17, and after his final year at school, Pete won a competitive audition and became the guitarist in a Ska Madness tribute band called 'Ultimate Madness'. The group had a busy schedule playing up to 7 nights a week all over England and this was the start of his professional career as a performing musician.

After 4 years of intense touring and a brief 6-month cover band residency in Wales, Pete was head-hunted during a showcase in Yorkshire by the Funk / Soul touring band 'Beat Street International' in 2005, who were impressed with his energy. Pete was called upon to play a completely new style of music and became influenced by artists such as Prince, Chic' and Parliament / Funkadelic. Now as well as England, Pete began regularly touring overseas to The Netherlands, Germany and Israel.

During his time playing in many top resident and touring bands in the 2000's, Pete had now trained his voice and began a solo career in Florida on cruise ships in 2009.

In 2010 Pete moved to Australia, performing his solo show with self-written backing tracks. During this period, he also joined a Hip hop / Rock band called 'Easy Tigers' and enjoyed an exciting tour of Western Australia. The year 2015 saw Pete join a local soul band called 'DD Soul', who held a late-night weekend residency at The Ellington Jazz club. DD Soul also recorded an original album, and made 2 television appearances.

In 2014 Pete returned home to the U.K to write, record and produce an epic Medieval Orchestral Rock album with his family, called 'The Fludes – Ancient Tales.' The album acquired a worldwide publishing deal from legendary producer Mark S. Berry in Canada. The album received global acclaim. From this interest, Pete received sponsorship from companies 'Rotosound' and 'Spear Guitars'.

On returning from England, Pete's interest had shifted into sharing his talent and experiences with the community. He began teaching private one-on-one instrumental lessons and also took on the position of music facilitator and coordinator at 'Catch Music' - an all-inclusive non-for-profit organisation. This role required him to work with vulnerable people within the community, develop music workshops and perform demonstrations.

In 2017 Pete took on work as a private instrumental teacher at music centres; "Sound Centre", and "Northside School of Music". He also held the position of band director and guitar instructor for Focus Music at Forrestfield Primary School.

In January 2019 Pete travelled to Vietnam where together with his wife Faye, he developed a music therapy program for children and teenagers with disability. After the success and enjoyment Pete felt from this experience, he returned to Perth to focus on his private tuition.

2023 saw the release of 'Demon & The Angel' written, performed and produced by Pete. This album highlights our culture's reliance on technology, and interaction with social media. Demon and the Angel gained worldwide air play and was reviewed highly across multiple platforms.

Pete is currently enjoying tutoring guitar, bass and vocals in the northern suburbs. Bongo Bedlam is an exciting new interactive music program for babies, toddlers and preschool children. Pete enjoys writing the music
